PREFACE TO THE REVISED EDITION

In addition to those persons to whom we expressed our appreciation for their assistance in preparation of the First Edition, we thank many birders who have taken the trouble to make suggestions improving this enlarged Revised Edition. Regrettably, it is not possible to thank each one individually on this page. We do extend our special thanks, however, to Eirik A. T. Blom, Daniel Boone, Michael C. Carey, James King, R. Guy McCaskie, Jay M. Sheppard, Lester Short, Paul W. Sykes, Jr., Robert B. Weeden, and Claudia Wilds for their extensive and detailed written comments on field marks and geographic range. We also thank John L. Confer, Elizabeth D. Darlington, Charles R. Smith, Daniel R. Gray III, and Dorothy W. McIlroy for having read and commented upon portions of the manuscript. Richard W. Stallcup kindly read the entire species account and offered many valuable suggestions. Portions of the manuscript were critically read by R. Michael Erwin, Mark R. Fuller, and Marshall Howe of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and the new range maps were reviewed and corrected by Danny Bystrak.

We thank John Bull of the American Museum of Natural History for making available study skins to the artist and authors, and we thank George Watson and David Bridge of the U.S. National Museum for the use of skins in their North American collection.

GOLDEN FIELD GUIDES

A Golden Field Guide is a treasured tool, a fascinating and invaluable aid for the nature lover in action.

What you see in a Guide is exactly what you see in nature. You don't have to translate black-and-white sketches into the colors of the real thing or flip through the book to match text with art. Each bird, tree, snake, and shell is captured in full color with descriptive text right there on the facing page. So you can identify a specimen or a species quickly, easily, positively.

That's why enthusiastic amateurs as well as exacting professionals swear by Golden—finest in the field!
